Practical Lessons for Living in the 21st Century

by Gene Wall Cole

With an eclectic mix of music, metaphor and true life experiences Gene Wall Cole's Sunday morning message motivates and inspires. Cole pulls tales and lessons from his own colorful background as a professional musician in both Nashville and LA and his new path as an author and motivational speaker as he points the way to a life of joyful exploration. Gene takes the twists and turns of a life lived by following the desires of his heart and via scriptural references passes on the principles he has learned along the way. Sharing his belief that manifesting one's own happiness 'is an inside job' Cole points to the signposts and signals that he has found in following his bliss as he entertains and informs. This Sunday message hints at the theme of his Follow Your Dreams workshop which outlines in detail the path toward personal happiness, dreambuilding and God's promises for an enriched life.
